States has the same duty to perform with regard to those bills which by the constitution, must originate in the constitution, must originate in the constitution, must originate in the constitution. I believe it was their duty to take up and consider that Dingley bill, amend, change or add to it. The substitute was a free coinage meanure, and as such I voted for it as a free coinage man. If the substitute of the committee had been disposed or by vote subsequently, still I believed it was the senate's duty to consider the original Dingley bill as it came from the house. I wanted this onlibefore the senate that we might amend it or other in the down at the end. I believed it was the duty of every senator to put his exact status on record with regard to it. The senate may amend such bills; it cannot originate them. What the broposition was in the minds of those that voted against the free coinage spostitute I can not imagine. I re-med then, and it seems now, that the principal object was to create animosity and infecting in different branches of the Republican party. Such, certainly, has

I tried to have a ratification while the substitute had been voted for the substitute had passed. It would not have had the slightest effect whatever on the silver question. The silver question would have remained unforched. The effect of the vote of the counties to speak was the party plustrous to silver and against western men by those who were anxious to pass the Dingley bill. So far as the action has been taken, it has been after the proceeded on his graveyard mission to san francisco and Senator Warren, of Wyoming, has returned to his home, no doubt well pleased with the business record mode by his plane establishment here. "They have not told me; I do not know. You had better ask them."

"Do you intend to make a canvass of the state yourself?"

"If you mean by canvass, 'do I intend to speak.' I have offered my services for that purpose constantly since my return from Washington. I am only too anxious to talk in behalf of McKinley and bimetallism. I have not so far had a great many opportunities. I tried to have a ratification meeting here for McKinley that I might express my views on the question of bimetallism, but I did not succeed in getting in. I expect to go at once to some of the counties to speak and will be very giad to do what I can in behalf of bimetallism and Republicanism in this state."

depends almost wholly on the mother's, not only before its birth but afterwards. A sick mother can't properly care for her child's health. A sick mother sometimes bears a healthy child, but it isn't to be expected.
Maybe the baby will possess the appearance of health, but will lack stamina. Maybe imnate weakness will develop in after years. Every woman should be particularly carefol of her health during the period of gestation—when the child is really a part of herself. During all this time, she should keep her body strong and pure and she should take proper precautions against her time of labor. For this purpose Dr.
Pierce's Favorite Prescription is prescribed. It has been used in thousands of cases, with the most stratifying results. It is a tonto to the whole body, but particularly to the organs distinctly feminine. It so prepares the system for childbirth, as to render it almost palniess. It cures all female troubles and promotes regularity.
